Register for an account at Scopus.com
Once registered, search for your name
You may have multiple accounts pop up, but check one of the boxes and then click your name (The MIT publication will come up later)
This screen should pop up, and then click +Add to ORCID.
This screen should pop up, but you may need to log into your ORCID account. You can add this publication also, if this is you, by checking the box and continuing through the final process. When done it should send your publication to your ORCID profile.
